

THE POLLINATORS

Butterflies today are distributed throughout the world except in very cold and arid regions. There are an estimated 18,000 species of butterflies. It is a popular belief that butterflies have a very short life span. However butterflies in their adult stage can live from a week to nearly a year depending on the species.

Butterflies feed primarily on nectar from flowers, many species migrate long distance navigating by the sun. According to some traditions butterflies are seen as a personification of a persons soul.
